

59 GOLFERS NAMED IN STATE TOURNEY

Pairings Made for Qualifying
Test To-morrow Morning.

OVER AGAWAM HUNT LINKS

Metacomet Has Biggest Representation, Followed By Wannamoissett.—Innovation Planned for Handicap Matches of 165 and Eight in Lower Divisions.

Officials of the Rhode Island Golf Association have drawn the 59 entries that were received for this year's State amateur golf championship by noon last Saturday. The pairings and starting times for the 36-hole qualifying test Tuesday morning over the links of the Agawam Hunt Club, follow.

There is a possibility of a few more late entries, which may have been held up in the mail, and if this is the case they will be appended to the present list.

Noticeable among the absentees are three players well known to Rhode Island State championships. These are N. S. Campbell, the present captain of the State team; C. H. Gardner of Agawam and H. E. Kenworthy, who played in the Massachusetts amateur championship the past week.

Metacomet has the largest representation this year, Wannamoissett next, and Agawam, Pawtucket and Rhode Island Country Club follow in order. Silver Spring usually has an entry of three or four low handicap players, but thus far without a representative, while Point Judith boasts of one.

Andrew Doleman and Elmer Wynne, the club champions of Wannamoissett and Pawtucket, are not found on the list, nor are such players as A. M. Dudlong, Jr., R. Sisson, C. A. Kilvert, C. M. Congdon and a host of players handicapped between 10 and 15 on the State list.

An innovation will be tried in the handicap matches of the sixteens and eight outside of the championship division. Instead of a player receiving three-quarters the difference of his handicap from a lower handicap player one-half of this difference will be taken in holes outright.

From the continuous soaking the course has had the past week it will probably be necessary to have a local rule posted governing a ball embedded on its initial flight. A Rhode Island tourney for either men or women the past two years has been the signal for a continuous down-pour just prior to the event. Outside of a few wet spots, the course is in fine shape, and with fair weather to-day and to-morrow normal conditions will prevail when match play starts.

Pairings and starting times:

1. J. D. Pryor, Point Judith, and H. A. Fluke, Metacomet; 9:05, L. S. Milner, Wannamoissett, and A. W. Waterman, Wannamoissett; 9:10, J. A. Atwood, Jr., Agawam, and E. E. Codman, Wannamoissett; 9:15, G. C. Carpenter, Metacomet, and C. J. Cote, Pawtucket; 9:20, L. M. Tetrau, Metacomet, and F. B. Read, Agawam; 9:25, R. F. McCoart, Metacomet, and L. P. Murdock, Wannamoissett; 9:30, E. D. Crandall, Pawtucket, and R. D. Books, Metacomet; 9:35, A. S. Vennerbeck, Metacomet, and J. S. Kenyon, Metacomet; 9:40, W. M. P. Macdonald, Metacomet, and G. H. Collett, Rhode Island; 9:45, S. Beckman, Metacomet, and Jesse Linton, Metacomet; 9:50, T. J. Moran, Wannamoissett, and E. W. Lincoln, Rhode Island; 9:55, Harold Congdon, Agawam, and Daniel Fairchild, Wannamoissett.

10:00—H. R. Bassett, Metacomet, and T. C. Clarkson, Pawtucket; 10:05—R. H. Beckman, Metacomet, and J. A. Gam-

Burt, Pawtucket; 10:25—H. M. Gartner, Metacomet, and P. C. Lestrade, Wannamoissett; 10:30—J. B. Ramage, Pawtucket, and B. W. Grim, Wannamoissett; 10:35—H. V. Rose, Wannamoissett, and C. S. Makepeace, Wannamoissett; 10:40—J. F. Heckman, Wannamoissett, and A. L. Aldred, Wannamoissett; 10:45—F. L. Chatterton, Pawtucket, and H. B. Rust, Jr., Wannamoissett; 10:50—W. D. Brownell, Jr., Rhode Island, and E. W. Angell, Metacomet; 10:55—Barnes Newberry, Agawam, and Tom Howick, Metacomet.

11:00—E. D. Chesebro, Wannamoissett, and W. L. Adams, Wannamoissett; 11:05—W. D. Brownell, Rhode Island, and B. F. Lister, Metacomet; 11:10—W. G. Wing, Agawam, and W. S. Tryon, Metacomet; 11:15—H. F. MacColl, Agawam, and B. F. Barnes, Pawtucket; 11:20—J. W. Lewis, Jr., Rhode Island, and H. E. A. Linton, Pawtucket; 11:25—H. A. Mackinney, Agawam, and partner.

TEAM RACE TO FEATURE

CARD AT CYCLEDROME

New Method of Pace Following to be Tried Tuesday.

An entirely new method of motor-paced riding will be seen Tuesday night at the Cycledrome, when a two-heat team race is offered as the feature event. Manager Turville has picked Gaethofs, Morio and Stein to do the honors that evening. The new plan gives every rider an equal chance on the saucer, the superiority of one pacemaker over another not being figured in any way in the results. Manager Turville's plan is to send the three pacemakers on to the track at the opening of the event. Then two of the men riding bicycles will start. They will be picked up by whichever pacemaker is most convenient for them and continue in this fashion throughout the race. A man losing his pace picks up the pacemaker nearest him, while as the bicycle riders alternate they will pursue the same system. There will be a spare motorcycle rider on the track at all times in case of accident, thereby giving all four riders an equal chance at all times.

The entrants are Georges Seres, world champion, and Charles Verkeyn of Belgium, against George Chapman, American champion, and Willie Coburn. The race will be run off in two heats, the first 20 miles and the second 30 miles.

The professional sprinters will participate in a 15-mile team race. There will be 20 men entered with a total of 10 teams. Prizes will be offered for sprints in every other mile up to 10 miles, and every mile for the last five, with lap prizes and place prizes, making altogether an attractive event for the riders. The amateurs will ride in a one-half mile handicap and two-mile open.

HILTON BELYEA HONORED AT NEW BRUNSWICK HOME

Sport Enthusiasts Pay Tribute to Veteran Oarsman.

St. John, New Brunswick, July 13—Sport enthusiasts turned out to-day to honor Hilton Belyea, 40-year-old oarsman, on his return from Boston, where last Monday he won the New England amateur senior single sculling championship.

The Mayor and the City Commissioners headed the procession that escorted him and other St. John oarsmen from the steamship wharves to the City Hall.

The shell in which Belyea sculled to victory over two former champions was carried on a gayly decorated float. A silver loving cup was presented him at City Hall.

Veteran Ball Player Dead.

TACOMA, Wash., July 10—George S. (Dad) West, old-time baseball player and a teammate of Capt. ("Pop") Anson and Albert G. Spalding on the Chicago team in the 70's, is dead here. He was 67 years old.

STATE GOLF MEET DRAWS 66 ENTRIES

Several Names Added to Original List for To-day's Opening.

COURSE SOAKED THOROUGHLY

Players on Links for Practice
Rounds Find Raft Excellent
Means of Transportation at 13th
Fairway. — Kenyon Makes 75,
Record Score, Despite Handicap.

Additional entries arrived in the mail yesterday morning for the State amateur championship. As the evidence showed that the tardy ones had made their plans well in advance, but through either a slow mail delivery or an incorrect address had failed to reach Myron H. S. Aleck, their names were accepted. This swells the list to 66 starters, as one entry has already withdrawn.

The new entries and their starting times are as follows: 11:35, W. B. Cady and C. A. Bassett, Silver Springs; 11:30, E. B. and A. N. Graves, Wannamoisett; 11:35, M. J. Lynch and George Kollstedt, Metacomet; 11:40, B. M. Jones and Ralph Griffith, Metacomet.

It is a most unfortunate but still an unavoidable circumstance that Agawam Hunt is bound to be very wet to-day. If the course has to assimilate any more moisture it will probably float away entirely. Yesterday a group of four youngsters in bathing costume ferried the players along the 13th fairway on a raft that was formerly a wide bridge used to get the mowing machines across a narrow brook. There is a sheet of water here that is from 50 to 100 yards wide and if a player is fortunate enough to carry the water he has to walk 300 yards beyond his ball to the fifth tee, then come back again to the water on to a peninsula that is high and dry between the Ten Mile and this flooded area mentioned, or be pushed across on this raft.

This hole is the worst affected on the course, but the fairways are as a whole water-soaked even where surface water does not show. Sunday morning's shower put the finishing touches on the hard work of the tournament and greens committees by gutting the bunkers, washing the sand away, and generally wrecking a course that was right up to the minute.

In spite of these rather unusual conditions J. S. Kenyon of Metacomet sailed around yesterday in practice in 75. This was a real score and bettered R. C. Rooks's card of 76 by a single stroke. Kenyon was out in 37, which included a ball out of bounds on the seventh. He did not have a truly bad hole in the round, but one putt and long shots from the rough saved him on three or four occasions. His four on the home hole, which was necessary to better Rooks's mark, came after a topped second shot short of the cross bunker, a mashie niblick pitch to within eight feet of the cup and a curling putt that dropped. His card follows:

Out 5 3 4 5 4 4 3 5 C-37
In 4 5 2 5 5 4 4 4 C-38-75

Rooks and the writer played with Kenyon and can vouch for the accuracy of this score.

To-day with the disks back on the back of the back tees there will be few who are out and back in scores under 80. Some one of Rhode Island's low handicap players should break this figure for both rounds, as long irons and pitches stick where they hit and permit the man who is accurate to shoot right at the pin without any thought of roll.

Ted Hancock, present champion, was one of the first to let the caddies ferry him across Agawam's Lake. Superior, then Daniel Fairchild, a former champion, sailed along, for both of these stars were out for a final practice round before the big event starts to-day.

Despite the wet, about half the players who will compete to-day made a round of the course yesterday, and unless a miracle dries up the course over night will have a fair knowledge of what they may expect the ball to do through the fairways and on the greens.

Wannamoisett Player Wins Medal Round in State Tourney.—Rooks Second with 158 After Record-Breaking 74 in Morning

BY MR. PUTT.

Unusual scores and unusual conditions presented themselves to 66 golfers who were ambitious to qualify in the 1921 Rhode Island amateur golf championship yesterday at the Agawam Hunt Club. Players who scored 177 and better found places in the championship flight, with Daniel Fairchild, Wannamoisett, the medalist and winner of the gold trophy offered the low scorer in this 36-hole test with his total of 157 for the two rounds.

R. D. Rooks of Metacomet looked to be the logical medal play winner after his morning record-breaking round of 74, had an indifferent round of 84, which gave him a total one stroke behind Fairchild.

From this point on the scores soared upward until the peak was reached at 177. The other players were then divided into flights of 16 according to their medal efforts, until every player was included in the match play draw.

The tournament committee very wisely shorted the 13th hole and made the overflow of the Ten-Mile river a water hazard. Embedded balls were lifted on the fairways and putting greens all the way around, and there was a ferry and a canoe to take the players and their caddies across the 13th, when any other means would have meant either a long walk or aeroplaning.

Rooks's morning round, which is a record for the course, deserves more than passing notice, as not a single real poor hole shows in his round and there were several of merit. His record card:

Out 4 4 4 5 5 5 5 5 3-38
In 4 5 3 3 2 5 4 3 4 5-36-74

Fairchild, on the other hand, with his card of 80 for his morning half, did not seem to have a chance, but in the afternoon he managed to squeeze in a 77, which gave him a total one stroke lower than Rooks, who had required 84 for his second half.

R. F. McCoart and J. A. Gammons, with totals of 166, were tied for the next place and the present champion, F. M. Hancock of Metacomet, after many mishaps, hopped into third place with a total of 177-168.

Match play starts to-day, with the second division teeing off first. The first pair starts at 9:15 and the rest of the players follow at five-minute intervals, with the first, third and fourth divisions following in a rotation. The championship, flight of 16 players will go without handicap and the other three divisions will use handicaps based on a new system, in which one-half of the handicap difference between players will be conceded in holes to the man with the higher stroke allowance.

State championships of the past have lacked many of the thrills furnished yesterday. Never before has it been necessary to employ either gondolas or wings. Either might have been used to advantage yesterday after the recent cloud-burst, and only those who sailed along without interruption or trouble felt the lack of modern methods of transportation.

The Agawam greens committee is to be complimented upon the splendid shape in which the course was in when nature and the elements seemed to be trying their ardent to wreck the works.

The summary:

Toledo, O. July 12.—Jeanette Rankin, winner of the Tavern "Steak" at Cleveland last week, had little trouble in capturing the Tecumseh $5000 Stake, feature of the second day's racing at the Fort Miami track. With Grey Worthy entered in this race, it was thought the horses would battle from wire to wire, and a large crowd turned out.

But Grey Worthy had all the trouble, breaking before reaching the quarter pole in the first two heats, and then, when out in front at the half-mile of the third, heat, threw a shoe. After winning the race, McDonald did not make a drive in the last heat, which was won by Princess Etawah.

Eunice Bell, the Peter Volo filly, was the class of the field in the three-year-old Sherwood Stakes, the other feature of the day's card. Murphy shot her to the front just after leaving the wire, and she was never headed in either mile. The big upset of the first division of the 2-15 race was the dis-

FOUR PLAYERS LEFT IN STATE GOLF MEET

Fairchild, Medalist; Rooks, McCoart, Victor Over Hancock, and Farrington, Winner Over Gammons, Enter Semi-Final Round

BY MR. PUTT.

When the dust of numerous hard-fought battles, which were waged in the opening rounds of the 1921 State amateur golf championship, being played over the links of the Agawam Hunt Club, had cleared away, there were some new names in a State championship semi-final posted on the scoreboard.

Daniel Fairchild, the medalist Tuesday, and six times the winner of the State title, H. P. Farrington, R. D. Rooks, one of the favorites in every local event, and R. F. McCoart are the championship survivors.

Fairchild was the only one to come through with easy wins, while the last green, or extra holes saw the wind-up of the other matches. Fairchild met and defeated in turn P. B. Read and J. S. Kenyon, and in each match obtained an early lead until they ended on Agawam's pleasant 14th green.

Rooks won by a 3-2 margin in the morning against G. H. Collett and was shooting some very fine golf in spots. In the afternoon he may thank his lucky stars that he was able to hole some treacherous putts and that his opponent, Hugh F. MacColl, missed a two-foot one for the match by a 3-2 margin. MacColl, who tips the beam at a trifle over the century mark, had the chance of his life to beat Rooks, as he was 5 up at one stage of the match, was pulled down to dormie two, lost the last two holes to Rooks's superior 49, and finally at the 20th hole had to admit that Rooks was his master.

It was a fine up-hill fight for Rooks to pull out a victor on, as MacColl was out in 17 and going finely until the 14th was muffed up a bit. MacColl was home in 40 for a 71, which is hard golf to beat on this well-trapped course. He earned his chance to meet Rooks by defeating H. B. Rust, Jr., by 3-2 in the morning round.

A new State champion will be the result of this year's tourney, as R. F. McCoart put the erstwhile titlist, F. M. Hancock out of the running at the home hole. This was a battle of endurance as well as skill, and a hole by hole analysis of their ups and downs, and offs and ons, can best be told by the gallery which trailed this pair. There were long tedious moments, practice swings, trips to the hole and back again, and many good shots and tense situations in this tilt. Let it be known McCoart was out to beat the champion and Hancock was just as certain that while he was often down he was never out. The home hole found McCoart in the rough to the left of the green and just out in 2. Hancock had topped his drive, got a good recovery, and banged his third on to the green nicely.

McCoart rose to the heights here, chipped up dead, and it proved good enough to win the match, as Teddy missed twice in the department where he has always starred. On the 11th green Teddy had the misfortune to tip his ball over in addressing it, and this proved to be the turning point of the match.

In the first round Teddy had his hands full with W. B. Cady and only pulled out his match on the home hole, while McCoart took Jesse Linton's measure to the tune of 4-3.

Gammons had won a close match with Harold Bassett, which went to the home green for settlement in his morning round, while Farrington, after being 3 down and 4 to play to H. M. Gartner, squared the match at the 17th and missed a 24-footer for a decision on the home green. Gartner was trapped on his second to the extra hole, and Farrington won with a 6.

All the afternoon, Gammons led Farrington for the only time in the round at the second hole, where Gammons recovered brilliantly from the rough and had two for a win, after Farrington had overplayed from a trap. Farrington squared the match on the next, and took the lead at the fourth, where Gammons topped and was trapped on the way to the hole. After being bunkered, Farrington won the next as a fine pitch changed the aspect when Gammons apparently had the hole sewed up, but overplayed his third. Farrington ran down a 15-footer for a 2 at the seventh, and Gammons sunk one of 15 feet for a half. A fine recovery dead on the pin gave Farrington the next one with a 4, and only a fine pitch saved Farrington from losing the ninth, where his second was trapped.

Gammons had to approach dead to save the 10th, with his opponent on the green. In 2 and Gammons looked to be in a position to win the 11th until Farrington laid up another pitch after a topped second and sunk a difficult putt for a 4. A half in 4 resulted at the short 11th, and then Gammons became three down when his ball sought a water-filled bunker at the next. Gammons's second to the long 14th after a whale of a drive was chanked and into the brook guarding the green. He waded in, and with the ball more than an inch under water, made a wonderful recovery, and then holed a 20-footer down hill for a win, as Farrington missed his six-footer for a half in 4. Gammons again shone on the next with an approach of 50 yards that holed for a birdie 3, and another win. Gammons's ball just fired with a 2 at the 16th, where a half in 3 resulted. A masterful second shot from the rough left him with a possible 3 at the long 17th. This squared the match and as the home hole was holed in 4, the players went to the extra. Gammons should have won this hole. His drive was another wonder, but he underestimated the second, was short in 2, well by the hole in 2 hit the back of the cup for a 4, but hopped out. As he missed a shorter putt than Farrington had dropped for a 6, the match was over.

The first round match between Kenyon and Bobby Beekman was looked upon as a very even one, but "Bunny" Jim got the whip hand at the start and he didn't let up until the match was in the bag.

The result of the two rounds completed yesterday and the starting times for today's matches, which are all at 13 holes except the two 36-hole semi-final championship contests, follow:

CHAMPIONSHIP DIVISION

First round:
Daniel Fairchild, Wannamoisett, defeated P. B. Read, Agawam, 5 holes.
J. S. Kenyon, Metacomet, defeated R. H. Beekman, Metacomet, 2-2.
H. P. Farrington, Metacomet, defeated H. M. Gartner, Metacomet, 19 holes.

FINE RUN OF GOLF IN WESTERN MEET

Evans Among Eight Survivors in Championship Tournament

Chicago, July 12.—After two fast match rounds of 15 holes, in which few players went more than two or three strokes above par—and one broke par by three strokes, five Chicagoans, including Champion Club Evans, one Iowa, one Minnesota and one Michigan man remained tonight in the contest for the Western amateur golf championship at the Westmoreland Country Club.

As a result of to-day's play, R. E. La Tweedie, Chicago; G. H. Hartman, Chicago; will play Burton Muxen, St. Paul, will be paired with C. H. Rogers, Grand Rapids, Mich., and Evans will defend his title against Ira Couch, a 15-year-old Chicago boy.

Evans again drew the gallery and played splendid golf, shooting par to defeat E. H. Baeder of the home club, in the first round, and going only one above par in his afternoon contest with Baxter Sparks, Terre Haute, Ind.

National Meet

Boston, July 14.—The Pacific coast will send East for the national lawn tennis championship tournaments in singles and doubles this summer a team of four men, according to advices received here to-day. Howard and Robert Kinsey, the Western sectional champions, will team again on Eastern courts and will play also in the singles competition. William F. Johnston, Pacific singles titlist, and Wallace Davis will complete the team. From the fact that Griffin Johnston's partner in the championship doubles play last year, was not named, it was assumed that Johnston and Davis would team up.

DAN FAIRCHILD WINS STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

*Wannamoisett Expert Defeats Rooks 1 Up in 36-Hole
Golf Final.—Turning Point in Match a Missed
Putt on 34th Green.—Large Gallery*

BY MR. PUTT.

Once again Daniel Fairchild of Wannamoisett is the State golf champion of Rhode Island. This is his seventh win and his victim yesterday at Agawam Hunt was Ralph D. Rooks of Metacomet, who finally succumbed on the last green of the 36-hole final by the narrow margin of 1 up.

The match was a most interesting one to watch from the standpoint of a contest, but the brand of golf displayed was not what champions should show. Neither player could have scored under 80 had there been any advantage in keeping an accurate medal card, yet it is a good bet that either can shoot Agawam in the seventies almost every time they play it.

When the noon recess was declared Fairchild was 1 down, as he lost the last hole after the match had ding-donged back and forth throughout the forenoon. Rooks took the first hole, and then a series of halves resulted until the short seventh was reached. Here Rooks was short on his tee shot and failed to get down in two more, while Fairchild had driven the green. Fairchild grabbed a birdie three with a fine rolling 25-foot putt at the eighth, and as he halved the ninth in five after being short in two where Rooks was bunkered in a similar figure, the players started home with Fairchild a single hole to the good. Rooks had a golden opportunity at the sixth after two fine pokes when he went over the green on his pitch and got a half instead of a win when the door was wide open, otherwise the match would have been even at the turn.

A second shot at the 10th that went out of bounds cost Rooks this hole, but he promptly took the next with a good drive and a fine iron on the difficult 11th. He also won the next, as Fairchild had a series of misfortunes where he was trapped from the tee over the green on his next, so that Rooks won handily with a 4.

Rooks lost the next, as he was over in three, and won the following hole, where Fairchild took three putts, when with Rooks by in two he looked to have all the best of it. The next two were halved in five and three, respectively, with Rooks recovering well in three from the right-hand trap, and Fairchild failing to run down not a hard putt on the 15th and both driving the short 16th and going down in two more. A half in five at the 17th left the match all square going to the home hole. Fairchild's drive was short here, while Rooks got a good one. The former played safe in two, sliced his third to a ditch, was short on the next two and finally picked up.

Rooks was in a hurry starting his afternoon round and those who know his game noted his quick walk between shots and also his rapid back swing. He muffed a couple on the way to the first green after a sliced drive and as Fairchild chipped a beautiful third dead, the hole was not finished, and the match was again on an even keel. Both drove well with a strong cross wind to contend with at the second, and an orthodox three for a half resulted. A sliced drive to the rough eventually cost Rooks the third, as after a splendid recovery he failed to get his third dead, while Fairchild had a certain four. Rooks also lost the next. A sliced tee shot caught one of the little traps and after a couple of thumps here, with Fairchild close to the green in two, no further playing was necessary for a decision.

Fairchild recovered from a badly hooked second at the fifth, with a fine pitch and a half in 5 resulted as Rooks followed up two behind wooden shots against the wind with a weak pitch. Fairchild hooked toward the out of bounds markers at the next, topped his second and got home in 3, while Rooks from the edge of the rough to the right, got home in 2, and with two putts won this hole. Fairchild's hooked-tee shot at the short seventh cost him this hole. Rooks was on the green and Fairchild lying so badly that he didn't get the green on his pitch.

Rooks cut under his tee shot to the eighth, and found a bunker when he attempted to play his second safe. He recovered well to just over the green. Fairchild after a good hit landed his second in a ditch, short of the green and from a difficult position close to the bridge across this hazard did well to get on to the green on his third. Rooks went down in two from off the green and won the hole, as Fairchild took three putts.

Rooks took the next for his fourth win in succession, as Fairchild hooked his drive, played safe in 2, was trapped over the green in 3 and after a wonderful recovery missed a putt for a half in 5. Rooks was trapped in two, but pitched up 12 feet from the pin and, while he missed the putt, his 5 was good enough.

With 27 holes behind him, and from a position after four holes of the afternoon round had been completed, Rooks had reversed the standing of the match from 3 down to 2 up. Facing home with this lead with four successive wins to give him confidence, it was strange that he should make so many misplays. His tee shot was sliced at the 10th into the rough, he was short of the green on a good, but not good enough, recovery, and again short in 3.

Fairchild won this hole with a perfect drive, pitch and two putts. Fairchild after a good drive showed one of the few truly meritorious shots of the afternoon at the next for his iron to the tough 11th green stuck up near the pin. Rooks had hooked to the rough, was unable to get home in 2 and Dan won with a par 4. Once more these combatants were all square.

Both drove exactly the same sort of a ball to the 12th; with Rooks on the green an inch and Fairchild in the bunker two inches short of Rooks. Fairchild was over in 2, so that Rooks's 3 gave him this hole and the lead once more. Rooks failed to lay a chip dead from short of the next green, while Fairchild with a fine shot and two putts, again evened the match. Both had their troubles at the 11th, Fairchild losing his ball in the ditch to the left, and Rooks coupling into the long grass in front of the tee. Rooks was well along in 1 and got a patch of a third to the plateau putting surface. Fairchild, with a penalty stroke, was home in 4 and made a good but for a half to 5. Rooks laid up a tremendous approach putt which gave him the hole and the lead again.

Back went the next hole to Fairchild as Rooks was trapped to the right on 12, second, with Fairchild not "chasing" into another pitfall to the left. Rooks made a splendid recovery, but missed his putt, and then went down after his right up approach to secure a par 4.

A threatening thunder cloud, preceded by a heavy rain, was in the face of the finalists when they were ready to play the baby 16th. Fairchild chose a niblick and his high pitched ball hit into the teeth of the gale, climbed up on to it, and finally was actually thrown for a loss. The ball was up over the green at one time, but wound up 30 feet short. Rooks, noting this bit of advance information, changed his club to a masher and got the green. Then, Oh my! With Fairchild too far away to hole his putt in all probability, Rooks failed to get his ball dead. He then missed a putt that was none too easy, but still strikes on the green were chalked up against him, and Fairchild's probable hole was turned into a half.

The wind did not help Rooks's sliced shot, for his ball bounded into the woods at the next, and, after trying to play his ball on to the fairway, where it could get a crack at it, he gave up after playing 4, with Fairchild an almost certain winner of the hole.

Now for the closing chapter. With Fairchild one up and one to play, Rooks got away a screamer, while Fairchild so badly that he had to play safe. He made only a slight gain by topping, and then got home to the back edge of the green. Rooks sliced his second a trifle, and was hole high. His chip shot, which must of necessity be dead, to hope for anything but a miracle to save him from defeat, was woefully weak, and, as he missed his 15-footer with Fairchild stood the match and Rooks's first good chance for a title that he has long been capable of winning, were gone for at least another year. A large and most interested gallery followed about the course in cars and on foot to see these two players stage the thriller, and Fairchild and Rooks got a good hand when Fairchild dropped the putt that won the victory.

In the second flight, L. M. Tetreau, following an example he set himself early in the week, settled his match on 18th green with Lester Murdock by 4. Tetreau had several other players grateful to his hand at this same hole and murmured "Congratulations!" This match was even at the turn with the 200 out in 44, including a 7.

Next came a junior championship between Brownie Graves and Joe Lewis. This would have proved a good championship final. The winner led by one stroke up to the turn, only to have the match squared again at the 16th, with Lewis winning at the home hole, while both boys shot 45 for the inward half.

J. A. Atwood, Jr., held up Agawam to their stock even though he had to start 8. Miner 2 up. The former was 1 down at the turn, but picked up the two holes necessary to bring him through a winner at the home hole.

In the only defeated eight final played, 10-day C. J. Cate mastered C. F. Burt in the final stage of their tilt in the second round. Even at the turn, and even at the 12th Cate took the next three holes to become dormie, lost the little feller, but made a Phoebe for a 2nd win at the 15th.

There will be a presentation of all of the prizes to-night at the clubhouse at 8 p. m., and those wishing to stay for an informal dinner should notify the steward, as no regular dinner will be served, but Agawam opens its doors to the contestants, and invites all to partake of their hospitality. The presentation will follow the 16-hole medal play handicap for the President's cup offered by Harold Congdon, which is open to all State championship entrants.

Bicycle Races Postponed.

Bicycle races scheduled for the Cycle-drome last night were called off late in the afternoon because of a sudden down-pour of rain, which soaked the entire plant. This is the second time this week Manager Turville has been forced to cancel races because of a wet track. The next meet is scheduled for Tuesday night at which time the leading event will be a three-heat match race between Clarence Carman and Vincent Madonna.
