

QUALIFYING ROUND AT AGAWAM TO-DAY

Play in State Golf Championship Play Begins Promptly at 8:30 A. M.

KEEN RIVALRY THIS YEAR

Three Days, Many Entries
Shooting in Preparation for Strenuous Test

The play in the qualifying round of the State golf championship will start this morning at Agawam, promptly at 8:30, when F. S. Sumner and M. G. Pratt will tee off, to be followed at 8:35 by the next pair, B. F. Oxnard and C. S. Tanner. At five-minute intervals the pairs will start until all the 90 entrants have gotten under way. The last pair, T. J. Shurtle and J. N. Folsy, will begin their round at 12:15 p. m., and between that time and dark must play their 36 holes.

While all entrants to-day and to-morrow must play 36 holes, only the four who remain undefeated in the championship flight must play 36 holes on Thursday. The other divisions, on Thursday and Friday, will play 18 holes only. The championship, however, calls for 36 holes each day right through to the final on Friday, of 144 holes in the four days.

Rivalry for the title this year is keen. Agawam's course has been open for practice for three days to all entrants and has been a scene of much golfing activity, as all those who intend to compete have played the links repeatedly.

Teddy Hancock, Ralph Rooks, J. A. Gammons, Harry Kenworthy, Daniel Fairchild, Heinie Gartner, B. F. Oxnard, Walter Kaskill, R. E. Slason, H. K. Clary, Dr. McCoart, J. S. Kenyon and Harry Blocker have shot some fine rounds during this period of making ready for the strenuous fray which begins this morning. State Champion Guy Mayer, whose title is now at stake, has also been playing the course, to make ready to put up a good battle for the crown.

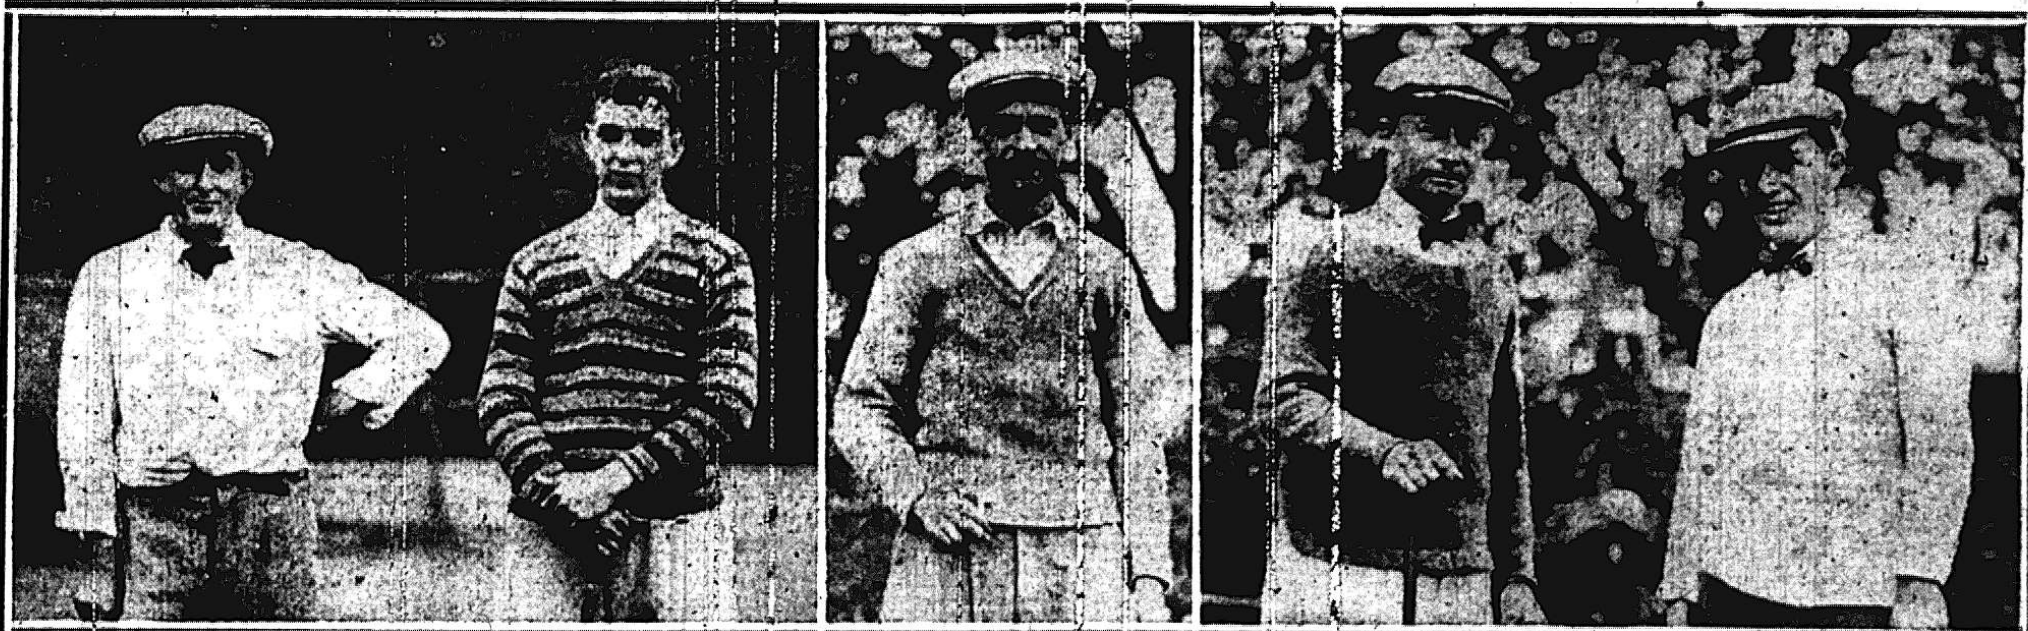

Kenneth D. MacColl, Agawam champion, has not been so active, as his familiarity with every foot of the course renders preliminary practice unnecessary for him.

MacCOLL WILL SCORES 149 TO LEAD FIELD IN TITLE MEET

Hancock of Metacomet Follows R. I. County Club Champion with 150.—Taller, 14-Year-Old New- port Player, Makes First Sixteen With 151

Kenneth D. MacColl, champion of both the Rhode Island Country Club and the Agawam Hunt, won the gold medal for the low qualifier round in the State championship tournament which began yesterday morning at Agawam, with a score of 149. One stroke behind him followed another champion, Teddy Hancock of Metacomet, whose 150. The gold medal MacColl came along with something better.

Twenty-eight golfers entered the all-day event, which was a scene of beautiful activity from 8:30 o'clock in the morning until the shadows grew long. The misty and threatening weather of the morning gave way for hot weather without a breath of wind the sort of afternoon always liked by golfers. All the local champions, except Harry Rickes of Pawtucket and Carl O. Stare of Mashod, were in the fray. Guy L. Mayer, State champion, defending his title; H. B. Rust, Jr., of Wampanoag, "Tender" of Metacomet, R. E. Wilson, winner of the Foster cup; Daniel Fairchild and Harry R. Kenworthy, both champions many times; Ralph D. Ricks, who won at Springfield last week, and Phil Wray, former Wampanoag metacomet champion, were all out to qualify in the first 16 and all got in.

From the south there came someone who also got into the championship flight, though of somewhat tender age. This little stranger came from Newport. He is only 14 years old. His 151 for his 56 holes was the same as the score of the veterans Ricks and Hyde Gattner, who were playing golf long before he was born. His name is T. T. Butler, Jr., and at the royal and ancient game he is a "whizz." He has knocked the ball around a little in the Ocean State, his father's private course in Newport, and has had the benefit of a few words of advice from the professional of that course.

As a result of this, in his first appearance in tournament play, long drives, and approaching and steady putting greatly surprised those who saw a boy in knee pants instead of plus fours, go so well.

The boy wonder is paired to play today with Guy Mayer, who a year ago won the title. He was then defeated by E. W. Hines, a little three in the hole, which helped the little Newporter greatly. President A. S. Vennorbeck of the club, which governs Rhode Island golf, Beltray Myron H. S. Affleck, the chairman of the handicap committee; H. A. Ross, and E. E. Hartwell, chairman of the Agawam tournament committee, were all present and very busy yesterday. As a result of their labors the first day's play was run off without a hitch.

Three were tied with 151 for a place in the championship flight. The playoff occurred just as the sun went down and drew a large gallery. Stuart Campbell, W. J. McDewitt and L. B. Colt engaged in the three cornered dust and McDewitt was the one who got a good drive from the tee. The other two sent their shots off to the right, and Campbell moved to be the one who was eliminated.

Play today will be a series of battles with rivalry keen in the first sixteen, which by nightfall will result in the defeat of eight of the stars.

The other five states will battle today with the beautiful prizes of the club house, three for each flight, ever before them. The prizes which will go to 22 lucky golfers in this tournament are set forth in glittering array on a table in the club house. Flanked by the championship cup is a fine line of other trophies, which include two silver pitchers, two travelling bags, two clocks, a pair of binoculars, smoking set, hand-drawn desk set, wrist watch, and a leather case containing a silver cigarette holder and match box.

Another cup on the table is the prize for Saturday's play which is a silver cup donated by President Vennorbeck of the R. I. G. A.

Harry E. Kenworthy's score of 152 was good, but might have been better if he had not slipped up on two par 150 holes in the afternoon. On the second he took a five, off the 220 yard 12th he had a six.

R. E. Sloan of Wampanoag, 150, whose score of 156 handed him in the first sixteen, narrowly missed making an ace on the seventh in the afternoon. His shot landed on the green and stopped only three inches from the cup.

Harold Condon, former President of the R. I. G. A., and a former tournament addict who has reformed, was beneath the umbrella at the scoreboard yesterday assisting in the scoring. During his spare moments he got out his pencil and did some figuring. It appeared, through Mr. Condon's somewhat extensive calculations, that during the tournament 11,608 holes will be played by the championship flight, the other sixteen, and the best sixteen.

If every entrant plays out his match and each match goes 18 holes, the championship event will cause the playing of 6,200 holes, and the play for the President's cup on Saturday will call for 4,000 more, with a grand total of more than 10,000 holes.

The Grays and Bradshaw are slated to get again this afternoon at Kinley Park for the second game of the series. The game put up yesterday by the Waterbury team makes the fans wonder why the team is so lost in the standing. No more brilliant fielding has been seen this year at Kinley Park than the Grays displayed yesterday. They earned their season's salary in that one game.

It is probable that Reynolds will join the Grays.

Club Champion Eliminates Wray 7 and 5 in Other Semi-Final Brackets at Agawam Hunt.—71
by Hancock, Privies Feature

In the semi-final of the State championship tournament at Agawam Hunt yesterday Herbert H. Rust, 25, held of the title at Wanganisset, and the golfer who eliminated both Daniel E. Dr. child and Kenneth D. MacCall on Tuesday, was beaten decisively by H. W. Hancock, Metacomet, 4 and 3, in 36 holes of play.

P. M. Hancock, Metacomet champion, administered a crushing 7-5 defeat to P. H. Wray of Wanganisset, in the other semi-final bracket. To-day, in the final, which will start at 10 o'clock, the victors will meet in a 36-hole contest from which one of them will emerge as the club champion of the year.

Rust's victory on Tuesday over P. J. child and MacCall gave him a stock of a generous boost, and although his next opponent was the always dangerous Hancock, there were many in the large gallery following the match who expected him to win. Rust's gameness and fighting spirit, shown in both rounds, were commended highly. He entered the afternoon play one down. With Hancock crowding him hard and defeat staring him in the face, he battled gallantly against the invincible to the 11th green, where Kenworthy scored his triumph.

The Kenworthy-Rust match attracted a large gallery. Rust behind came Hancock and Wray in the other semi-final. Rust, who on Wednesday, played his first 18 holes tied the score of W. Lincoln, who on Wednesday, playing in the second division, broke his Agawam record for amateurs.

Wray's golf in the morning was a second round match play. But he was clearly outclassed. In the afternoon he was eliminated on the 11th green, when he was six down.

Drives of more than 300 yards by Kenworthy and Rust and beautiful approaches by Hancock and Wray, in their provided many features.

The cards in the Hancock-Wray match:

Rust drove 200 yards on the first hole. His second was short but he was on the green. Kenworthy made a great recovery from a trap and was on in three, laying Rust a stylin'. Rust missed his putt and both dropped in five.

On the second hole Rust drove to the green. Kenworthy was in the right, but was on in two. He missed his putt and Rust sunk his for a three to Kenworthy's four.

Both had perfect drives on the third. Kenworthy was over the green but Rust was on. This hole was halved in four.

On the fourth each was on in three and took two putts halving the hole in five.

Rust drove into the trap at the fifth while Kenworthy was in trouble at the left of the green. Rust failed to escape out and took a six to Kenworthy's five.

The sixth was halved in four. Rust was on the green at the short seventh and Kenworthy went down in three, while Rust took a four.

The eighth was halved. Kenworthy went into the trap on the ninth, while Rust drove into the rough. Each recovered well and halved in five.

Kenworthy unhooked a 200-yard drive on the 10th, while Rust was nearly as long. This hole was also halved in four.

Kenworthy drove into the trap at the right on the 11th while Rust landed 50 yards farther on in the rough at the left. Kenworthy's third landed him in a trap. Rust went over on his second and while Kenworthy was playing out of the trap, his club accidentally hit the ball. Neither the umpire nor anyone in the gallery saw the shot, but Kenworthy called it in and conceded the hole, squaring the match.

On the 12th both drove to the green. Rust was down in three, to Kenworthy's four, putting him one up.

At the 13th both had good drives, but Kenworthy's second was short and he was out in four to Kenworthy's five.

Rust laced the ball 240 yards on the 14th, the longest seen at Agawam in years. Kenworthy drove into the rough. His second was short but Rust was out of the green into a sand trap and lost the hole with a five to Kenworthy's four.

Kenworthy went into the rough on the second on the 15th. He took a five to Rust's four. On the short 16th, both were on in one, but Rust took a four to Kenworthy's three.

Rust drove into the rough on the 17th. Rust recovered well, being just short of the green, but Kenworthy holed out on four to Rust's five, squaring the match.

Both drove poorly on the home hole, but had good second shots. Kenworthy's was 24 feet from the pin, and Rust nine feet. Rust missed by an inch but Kenworthy ran his drive past to Rust's five, putting him one up.

In the afternoon match, which began with Rust one down, both Kenworthy and his opponent got splendid drives right in the bag, away up over the hill. Kenworthy clipped the ball and sent it sailing to the green. Rust was short by 10 feet from the pin, and his putt was perfect, giving him a three's three, while Rust took two putts and went two down.

On the second Kenworthy put the ball on the green and sunk it with two putts for another three, six for the hole.

Rust's second shot went over the green. His third poke sent the ball across the green again and he took a five.

From the third tee Kenworthy sent his ball on a long journey, while Rust went on a short jaunt into the rough. His recovery shot was superb. With his brassie, he sent the ball hurtling through the air to stop on the green. Kenworthy won the hole with a four and was four up.

On the next hole both were on the green in two. Rust laid Kenworthy a stylin'. Kenworthy's putt hit the ball in such a way that he was stylin' again, and Rust won the hole.

From the fifth-tee Rust, hitting hard, drove out of bounds. Penalized for this, he needed seven strokes to coax the sphere into the cup. This hole was also troublesome for Kenworthy, whose ball went into the brook. Rust was again four down.

From the sixth tee two more good drives went whizzing down the fairway. Kenworthy's second shot carried to the foot of a hill at the right of the green. Rust's second was on, and his two putts won the hole, four to Kenworthy's five.

They halved the seventh with threes and the eighth with fours. On the long 10th Kenworthy drove 200 yards to the ditch, got a free lift out and then, without seeming effort, dropped the ball on the green only two feet away from the pin. Rust was short with his third, was out in 4, sunk it for a 5, and again went down. There was a worried look on his face as he went to the 10th tee and saw Kenworthy, with a terrific wallop, send a ball no less than 220 yards with one of the longest drives made in the tournament.

Both were on in 3 and sunk their putts for birdie 2s, the only pair to show such impeccable golf simultaneously in all the preceding play of the tournament.

On the 11th green, just as Kenworthy was about to putt for a 4, a puff of wind removed the hole from the heads of two spectators. The hole rolled across the smooth turf and spoiled Harry's putt. The hole was halved with 5s.

Both were 4 on the 12th. On the next green Kenworthy rimmed the cup with a 20-foot putt, barely missing another birdie and the hole was halved with 4s.

From the 14th Rust drove over the brook. Kenworthy was with him in landing on the green in two strokes and both took fours. The end of an exhibition of beautiful golf by Kenworthy came on the 15th green. It was Rust's last chance and he played the hole as if for his life. He could do no better than have it and lost his much-desired chance to play in the final.

While Rust was going down in honorable defeat, right behind him his friend and clubmate, Phil Wray, was vainly attempting to stem a tide of battle which was gathering against him. Hancock and Wray started off well enough, Wray winning the first hole and Hancock pulling up near on the next. He gradually drew away from his opponent until he was six up at the 16th. The last two holes of the round were halved. Hancock had a birdie two on the 16th.

In the afternoon Wray won the first hole and the second was halved. Wray took the third, and then Teddy proceeded to put on the clamps by winning four holes in a row.

At the 12th Wray was seven down and seems to go, but he made the hole in a par 3. Hancock's putt, though rolling slowly, jumped the cup and the match went to the 13th. Wray drove out of bounds, lost the hole and with it his chance for the final.

During yesterday's play the two 14-year-old boys who have participated in the tournament, with much credit to themselves and their instructors, were defeated. Melvin Garrier of Metacomet beat T. Sufferin Talbot, Jr., of Newport, 7-6 and A. W. Rogers won over Maurice Lynch of Metacomet 5-2-2.

The championship final of 36 holes begins at 10 o'clock to-morrow, while the other finals, all 18-hole matches, will start at 7-9 o'clock.

The summaries:

FISKE HURLS MONARCHS TO 3-2 VICTORY OVER DE MOLAY

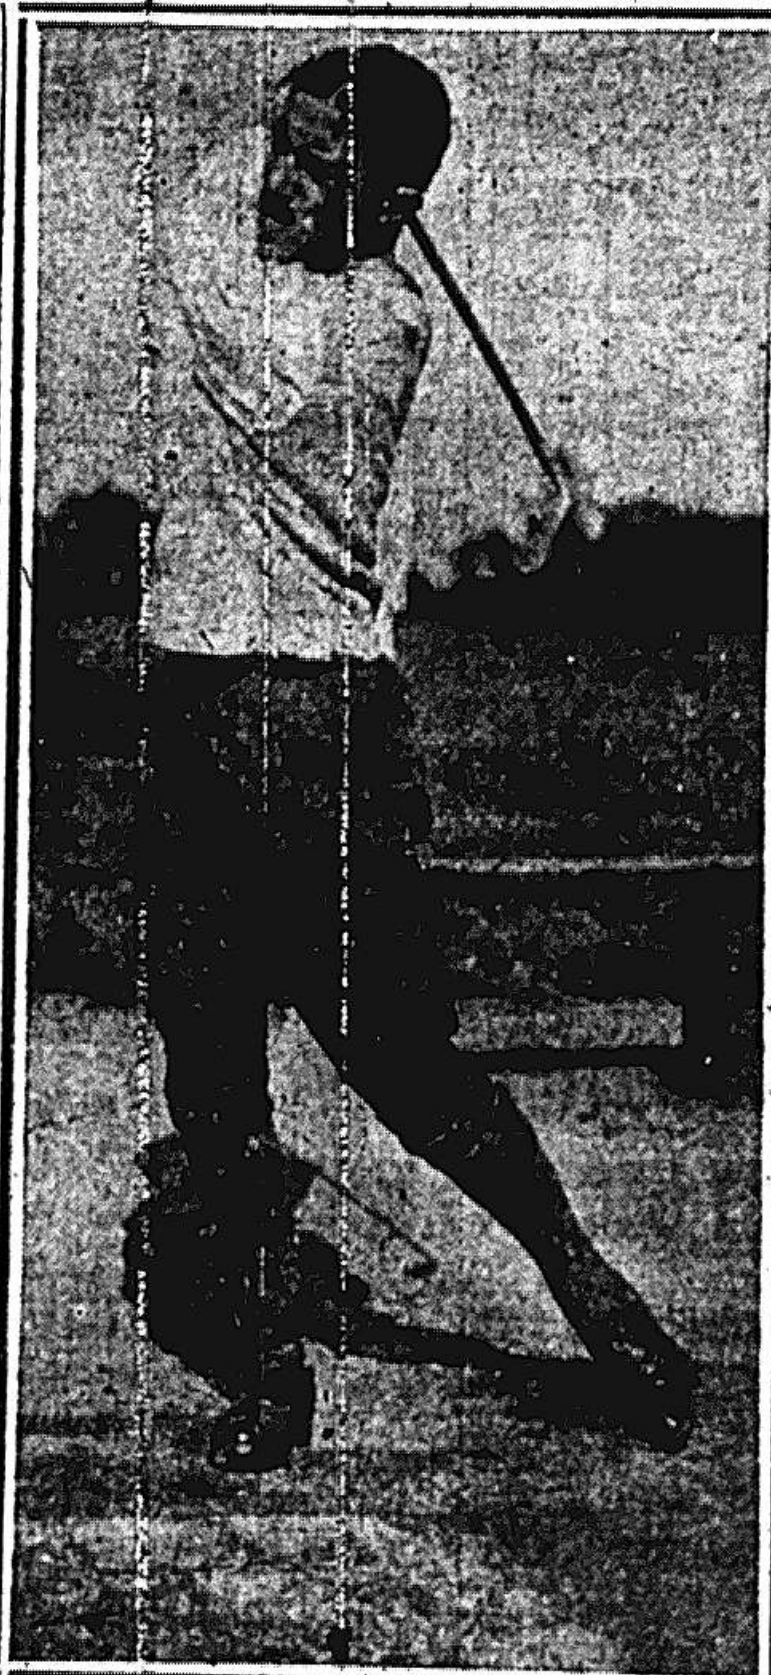

Holds Opposition to First Title, Clogs Given Poor Support.

Monarch 3, De Molay 2.

Daddy Black's Monarch ball tossed in a fine exhibition of baseball and administered to De Molay boys a bitter first defeat of the season at Bunker last night, by the score of 3-2.

Blake on the mound for the victors turned in a creditable performance, allowing but five hits and holding his position in fine style, while Fiske, the losing underman, was the victim of erratic support. The fielding of Teddy Unsworth and the timely hitting of J. Giles featured for the winning aggregation, while George Thorpe's shooting catch in the initial stanza was also worthy of commendable praise.

F. M. HANCOCK WINS STATE GOLF TITLE; 500 WATCH BATTLE

Kenworthy, Losing Big Gamble on 35th Hole, Defeated Two Up, One to Play.

MATCH IS NERVE-WRACKING

Champion in 1920 Regains Crown by Steady Shots as Ancient Rival Resorts to Spectacular
Side—Stymies Telling

Frederick M. (Teddy) Hancock of the Metcalf Golf Club, State champion in 1920, took the title again yesterday, 2 up and 1 to play, from Harry B. Kenworthy, also of Metcalf and also former State titlist, in a swiftest battle over the Agawam Hunt Club course beneath the blistering sun of the summer's hottest day.

The ancient rivals, who have fought each other for Rhode Island and club titles ever since yesterday's winner was a kid in shorter pants than he now wears, put up a nerve-wracking exhibition of golf that had the big gallery perspiring more feverishly than they.

It was a day of up and down, and nip and tuck, filled with some shots that would shiver a Scotchman's timbers and others that would test the patience of Job. Only a Post-Script would have gambled on the outcome up to the last hole.

Throughout the day's play Kenworthy was the brilliant, but somewhat erratic opportunist, paying heavily sometimes for his spectacular, chance-taking, and on other occasions bringing his ball to the pin amid the gasps of the gallery.

HANCOCK STEADIER

Hancock played the stonier game. His drives were not so long as his 300-yard wallops of the older man, but he was seldom off the green with his second shot, and his faculty for dodging pitfalls by a hair's breadth was steadily consistent. And, when occasion demanded, he abandoned conservatism and did tricks with his clubs that Willie Hope never did with a billiard cue.

Stymies were the feature of the match and, if anything, the deciding factor. On the 12th, in the normal round, Hancock stymied Kenworthy, but the latter took his club and jerked his ball over his rival's white ball and into the cup. It was the prettiest shot of the tournament. On the 15th, stymied again, he barely failed to repeat the performance, the ball actually rattling in the cup before it escaped out.

On the 17th Hancock was stymied. Refusing to emulate his competitor, he put English on the ball and drove it around Kenworthy's into the anxious container. The gallery gasped again.

Hancock stymied Kenworthy twice on the 24th and took the hole by a stroke, making him two up. On the 25th, the last hole played, he laid his ball within three inches of the pin and directly in front of Kenworthy's. Facing an imminent defeat, Kenworthy tried to play a brilliant follow shot, but his ball stopped dead on striking the other and the match was done.

STYAIN APPARENT

During the morning round both played golf that was worth going miles to see. Neither was ever badly behind, and they wound up the 18th even at 17. The news that a tense battle was being fought was broadcast and when the broiling sun had ridden down a bit from the zenith a gallery of more than 500 began to assemble for the afternoon round. They were well repaid for their perspiration, for although the intense heat and nerve strain had begun to tell somewhat on both contestants, there were plenty of thrills in store.

In the morning, after being three down to Hancock, with the situation looking dark for him, Kenworthy worked out from under with a strong round golf. In the afternoon Hancock was himself three down and suffering more and more from the heat, but he gripped himself out of the last slump and took full advantage of the bad luck which rode Kenworthy on the 21st.

The latter's irrefragable second shot, sent high and true for the green, landed on a hard bit of turf and kicked off to the right into a trap. Thereafter, for the concluding four holes, he got up a strong but losing battle against the curse of stymie. As his ball blocked Hancock's over the cup on the 25th, and itself failed to drop from above he whacked Teddy's pill from the green and shook hands with his conqueror.

In the morning round Kenworthy drove from the tee first and landed in the sandy going at the left of the fairway nearly at the top of the hill. He lost the hole, taking a 5 to Hancock's 4.

On the second Hancock won through the play on the green, where both should have dropped far away from the hole. Kenworthy missed a birdie 2 by inches, and the hole was halved. On the third green Kenworthy narrowly missed making another birdie with his 3-5-4 approach putt. Hancock's first putt was short by three feet and Kenworthy evened the match with a 4 to Teddy's 5. Kenworthy was twice in the ruck on the fourth. Hancock sunk a 11-foot putt for a 4, and both played the hole par.

Kenworthy drove out of bounds on the fifth. His second try from the tee resulted in a long one which clung down out of the clouds to drop beside Teddy's ball far along the fairway. His second shot landed on the edge of a trap and his third struck a tree. He conceded the hole and Hancock went 1 up.

On the next hole Hancock began to show a liking for sand traps which later in the day nearly proved his undoing. He played out from the deep cavity where he found the pill with a highly creditable recovery shot. Kenworthy hatched a birdie, however, by sinking a 20-foot putt for a 3, which squared the match. They halved the short seventh

Records of the champion leaped into the air, and the crowd began to cheer. The champion landed solidly to the body. Levine hooked his right to Laito's jaw, but took a stiff left in exchange. The champion was making a rushing battle of it and had the challenger on the ropes when the gong rang.

Levine's shiftiness bothered Latzo, but he backed to the ropes under a flurry of blows from the champion. Levine's left jab connected twice as the referee counted a chorus of boos from the audience.

ated that many has not seen the blow struck, but Latzo appeared to have been painfully hurt, and the fighters were compelled to carry him to his dressing room in the rear of the arena.

Latzo, seen in his dressing room after the fight, asserted he was hit low twice on the side of the head.

Latzo was connected twice to the jaw. Two smashing rights to the head staggered Levine, and they wrestled along the ropes. The champion set a fierce pace, and landed solidly with both hands to the jaw. The challenger was retreating at the bell.

going down. Examined by the Box-Commission's official physician, the union apparently was suffering from serious after effects. He was able to leave the park an hour later with his brother, Mike Latzo, and trainer, Thomas.

A hurricane, two-listed attack, had befuddled the titleholder through the first rounds impressively, and he was winning by so wide a margin as to indicate claiming a foul. The referee helped the champion to his corner, where his hand-diara worked over him.
