These must stiend. Those who witched both games paid twice. Naturally, Buinness is buunness, and Mr. Tom Yawkey has never been known to pass up an honest dollar even hough he is popularly supposed to be overburdened with the crisp green stuff. Despite the public service involved, the good fans of Boston were indigmant at having to pay twice to see what in the good old days would have been a doubleheader to be seen for the price of a single addination. swimming, or going to the races. Players Against it The ball players do not like night baseball. That is understand-she it prolongs their working day and takes away those pleasant evenings at home. As for the ball player' argument that playing under the lights shortens their useful carers. It doesn't make sense. The lights are sup-pased to help the pitchers. If so it follows that the burlers do not have to bear down so often, which should make for a longer working career. What gives then The eyers' That can be discounted. The lights are no harder on the eyes of the players than they are on the paying cus-tomers.

no harder on the eyes of the players than they are on the paying cu-tomers. The only substantial beef the players have is that night baseball upsets their normal roution. They have a point there, especially when a Babe Buth, who took his hed dogs and,pop when be felt like it, but most ball players have set eating and aleeping habits. The way around that is obvious. Let them play all their games a ringht, al beast through the indidument montha-from the middle of June, sky, through the middle of September. And whether the players like it or not, that is entirely what major leagues baseball is coming to. You can be sure of it, and bye-bye bargain bill doubheaders.
