

Qualifying Test Opening Early At Metacomet

By MARI LOUGHEE

A crash field of 100 golfers starts today in the first annual championship of the Rhode Island Golf Association at Metacomet.

The action is scheduled to begin at 7:30 and will continue through the day. With luck, the last man in the field will complete the holes of qualifying play without lighting matches to find his way.

Match play begins tomorrow and will continue through Sunday when the two survivors will meet in a final match of 36 holes, later more depending on the closeness of the.

Even those old enough to talk about "the good old days" of Rhode Island golf—and they were plenty good—were willing to concede that never assembled for the championship.

A Re-Champs Play

In it are eight former champions, including the seven who have won since competition was resumed after the war. Junior golfers—and we have more than a few good ones around here—are challenging in force.

No golfer in the field has a handicap of more than nine strokes. If entries from players with higher handicaps had been accepted, the field would have become too large to handle.

The first time tickets will be sold to those members of the gallery who wish to buy. The tickets, priced at one dollar, are good for the entire tournament. Proceeds will go to the Burke club scholarship program sponsored by the Rhode Island Golf Association.

Star Threesome

In today's qualifying play, a threesome sure to attract much attention is the one which has Angie Santilli of Potowomut, the defending champion, matching strokes with Al Farnes of Metacomet, winner in 1934. With them will be Richard Hirsch of Rhode Island Country Club who will also bear watching. Hirsch is a newcomer to Rhode Island amateur golf, but is reported to be good enough to win this one. ## First World Series? First All-Star Game?

Ph.D.'s Thesis Contains Data That Will Surprise John Fan

ITHACA, N.Y.—(AP)—The All-Star Baseball Game didn't have its origin in Chicago in 1933, as the many league record-keepers would have you believe. The big midsummer show staged in Washington Tuesday was merely the continuation of an idea that began in 1858.

The first All-Star Game was played that year at Pashan Race Course on Long Island. It was strictly an unperceivable affair between picked nines of gentlemen from Brooklyn and New York.

That is one of the historical facts uncovered by Dr. Harold Seymour, a former Dodge baseball writer who has just earned his Ph.D. degree in history at Cornell with a thesis on "The Rise and Fall of the All-Star Game."

Dr. Seymour, now a resident of Lakewood, Ohio, grew up within earshot of Ebbets Field and scored there as a turnstile boy, scoreboard operator, clean-up boy and, for three summers, batboy. Later he played college baseball, coached semi-pro ball and served as umpire, scout and manager.

He was graduated by Drew University in 1934, took his masters degree at Cornell in 1940 and received his Ph.D. this summer for a 600-page work which concluded that the "national sport" is neither national in origin nor a sport.

Drawing his material from libraries, baseball collections and files of old newspapers, Dr. Seymour traces "baseball" back to a rhymed description in a children's book published in London in 1744. He identifies it with the British game of "rounders" and adds that the Dutch of New Amsterdam and the soldiers at the Valley Forge played baseball.

Princeton University outlawed the game in 1787. Although Abner Doubleday has been credited with "inventing" the modern game in 1839, Dr. Seymour finds no mention of this in Doubleday's letters or speeches. It was Alexander Cartwright, organizer of the New York Knickerbockers in 1845, who established such modern rules as three strikes as an out, three outs per inning, a nine-man team with definite positions, and a diamond with 90-foot baselines.

Tracing the growth of baseball from a gentleman's sport to a big-time professional game, Dr. Seymour finds its development in the 19th century paralleled that of American business. His study covers the period up to 1891.

"Baseball is big business despite the recent Supreme Court decision," he states.

The professional phase began with under-cover pay to players. Boss Tweed's New York City club, Dr. Seymour says, cost the city $300,000 a year in salaries for spurious street cleaners, firemen, etc. The first really professional team was Harry Wright's 1869 Cincinnati Red Stockings, whose players, incidentally, rode to games in decorated carriages, singing their baseball song.

The club owners' early day labor policies included blacklists, labor spies, fines for poor play and other devices to control player behavior, even out of season.

Some other baseball facts, so far as Dr. Seymour has determined, are:
First recognizable team—Olympic Town Ball Club of Philadelphia, 1833.
First official game—New York Knickerbockers vs. New York Baseball Club, June 19, 1845.

N.E. Outboard Meet Scheduled Sunday
South Hadley, Mass.—(AP)—Some 200 persons have entered the New England regional outboard championships, which will be contested on the Connecticut River Sunday.

Joseph Walther of the local Veterans of Foreign Wars Post, which is sponsoring the event, said competition will be in eight classes, according to size of motor. Winners, second and third-place finishers will qualify for the Nationals at Richmond, Va., next month.

Entries have been received from Hartford and New Haven, Conn.; Providence, Boston, Fall River, Portland, Maine; Worcester and Springfield.

The competition will be under sanction of the Connecticut Outboard Association.

Rain Washes Out

Braves-Giants Game

Milwaukee—(AP)—A baseball game between the Milwaukee Braves and the New York Giants, scheduled as a makeup of an earlier rainout, was rained out last night.

The game was the only action scheduled in either major league yesterday as the ballplayers took their usual post-All-Star game holiday.

The Giants, in town only for the makeup game, return to regular-season work today at St. Louis.

3 Ex-Champs Out: Pacheco Also Beaten

By EARL LOQUIST

Three former titlists were eliminated yesterday as a wave of upsets hit the Rhode Island amateur golf championship now being played at the Metacomb Country Club.

Fred Campanelli, 1949 champion, and Stan Koslowski of Pawtucket, winner in 1948 and 1947, did not survive the opening rounds.

Campanelli was defeated on his home course by Lou Fialak of Valley, 2 and 1, while Koslowski was falling, 4 and 3, before Howard Dana, R.I.C.C.

Also in the upset category was the 5-and-4 victory which Joe McKoon, Potowomut, scored over Bobby Pacheco. Triggs, the tournament medalist, and 1954 public links champion, in the first round, Pacheco scored the first four holes in even par, and found himself three down, 4 and 1, most discouraging situation.

Although the upsets were severe, the championship, being played before increasingly large galleries, was by no means devoid of its name players.

Zulueta Gains Upset Verdict Over Lightburn

New York, July 14.—Orlando Zulueta of Cuba upset young Ludwig Lightburn of British Honduras, seventh-ranking lightweight contender, last night with a left-jabbing attack for a unanimous 10-round decision in their substitute of nationally televised fight at Madison Square Garden.

Some of the estimated 1,200 fans who gathered for the fight saw the last of the seventh round on a foul for a low left hook by Lightburn contributed to his defeat.

Lightburn, favored at 3-1 and weighing 138 pounds to Zulueta's 136 1/2, forced the fighting in most rounds and did most of his damage with a body attack. He was awarded twice for low punches before suffering the foul in the seventh session.

A press sports writer after the ringshow showed 8-1 in favor of Lightburn.

Unlikely Night

But the 22-year-old son of a Honduran maboagayo 2-1, per was unlikely last night as he substituted for the second time on Friday, the 13th, this year.

The three ring officials favored 28-year-old Zulueta, a former lightweight contender, on a round basis as follows: Referee Percy Selous, 6-4; Judge Joe Schechter, 6-4; and Judge Jack Gordon, 5-4-1. The United Press, had Lightburn ahead, 5-3-2.

Lightburn had substituted for Jimmy Carter at San Francisco on Friday, and his decision over Joe Lopez, last night both he and Zulueta were substitutes for a match between middleweights Rocky Castellan and Joey Giambra, which was postponed to Aug. 3 because of a hand injury suffered by Giambra.

Zulueta, who had won but one of four previous bouts this year, was given the first, second, fourth and seventh rounds by all three ring officials last night—the seventh on a foul. They agreed only on the sixth and eighth for Lightburn.

There were no knockdowns. Zulueta went into the ring with a slight limp in his left leg, and he suffered a nick at the corner of his right eye in the fourth round.

Lightburn landed the harder punches and he hurt Orlando in the sixth session with a left jab to the body that almost knocked him back onto his heels with a right to the jaw and spun him with another punch to the same spot.

It was Zulueta's 58th victory in 95 fights and Lightburn's eighth defeat in 41. Whether the fighters will meet Orlando back into the top 10 ratings is uncertain.

Lightburn's Billy Brown said he was tired to pair Zulueta and Lightburn for a return fight at Washington, D.C., on Aug. 15. Lightburn deserved a substitute last night and because of the debate over the decision.

Defeats Santilli on 38th After Being
4 Down at 20th Hole

By EARL LOFQUIST

Four down after 20 holes, Ronnie Quinn of West Warwick made a remarkable rally and finally defeated defending champion Angie Santilli one up, on the 38th green at Metacomet yesterday for the Rhode Island amateur golf championship.

This was the 51st playing of the event and it can be doubted that any of them had a more exciting final match. Happily, it was watched by a large gallery, possibly the largest ever to watch an amateur match in Rhode Island. A conservative estimate was that 3,500 watched the action.

All those people, who, incidentally were well handled by Fred Young and his marshals, were impartial to the very end. This was indeed a tribute to the two golfers. Under long and close scrutiny, Quinn and Santilli stood up in the mass mind as good golfers and gentlemen. No matter who might win, Rhode Island would have a good champion.

Sister Delock Mound Combines Split for Sox—Yanks Take 2

Hub Club Wins, 3-1, After Loss To Tribe, 10-7

By F. C. NAYLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Boston — Another sample of the superb pitching that the Red Sox have had on display the past few days was on view at Fenway Park yesterday. This one was a bright two-hit combination effort by Dave Sluder and Sister Delock which sparked the Sox to a 3-1 nightcap decision over the Cleveland Indians and a split in the day's doubleheader.

The Indians, thanks mainly to two four-run innings at Willard Nixon's expense and some capable relief chieftains by Art Houtman, won the opener, 10 to 7.

Cleveland's victory snapped a sixgame Sox winning streak and a three-game Cleveland setback string at one and the same time. Too, it offered the Sox a snafu opportunity and they rebounded with the nightcap triumph, to the pleasure of most of a gallery of 32,500.

Sluder, rookie right-hander making his third mound start under the big top, made a valiant try for his first complete game, and almost hit that target.

Sister Tires In Ninth
He had a hit shutout for six innings and still had a room to go, 3-1 victory going for him as he opened the ninth. But the alarm and bespeckled son of the Hall of Famer, George M. Lerer, tired all of a sudden and walked the two leadoff batters, Al Smith and Vic Wertz.

Delock, hero of Saturday's 5-4 Sox conquest of the Chicago White Sox, stalked into action and once again was perfect as he saved Sluder's fourth major league victory.

The chunky Michigan native fanned the dangerous Al Smith but on the strikeout pitch, Smith and Houtman, the latter pinch-running for Wertz, entered a double steal that put the tying run on second and heightened the pressure under which Delock worked.

But it didn't serve him from his purpose. He fanned pinch-hitter Bob Lemon for the second out and calmly ended the game by getting Hal Naragon on a routine flyout to Jimmy Piersall in center.

On the barrage side the Sox had efficient-enough guests in Ted Williams, Mickey Vernon, Don Buddin, Sammy White and Sisler himself.

10 Boxes Hits in Nightcap
Among them they led a 10-hit Sox that parade that beat the Indian right-hander, Mike Garcia, Williams gave the Sox a double off the very top of the left center wall with two-out in the first. He scored on Vernon's single.

In the fourth Sisler attacked with his own game. After Buddin singled, with two outs, the freshman finger drilled a tremendously long shot to deepest left center that scored Sisler. Sisler's sacrifice and two-run possibilities and settled for a single when he could have walked to second which was unattended.

No matter, the two runs were all he needed. The Sox, however, got him out in the fifth when Williams walked, advanced on a Jackie Jensen single and scored on one by White.

The Indians got their own run in the seventh when Rosen led off with a double, went to third on Jim Busby's sacrifice and scored on Naragon's infield out.

Nip-and-Tuck Opener
The curtain raiser was more of a nip-and-tuck battle. The Indians opened by battering Nixon for four first-inning runs on doubles by Smith and Sam Rice and singles by Gene Woodling and Busby.

The Sox, however, hammered their way into the lead with a first-inning run, punched in by Jensen, and a go-ahead cluster of four in the third. Dick Gernert paced this rally with his 11th homer. It also included a walk, a run-producing single by White, another walk and a two-run triple by Billy Goodman.

The latter shot was at the expense of Houtman who took over for the Indian starter, Hank Aguirre, midway in the big inning. Houtman then struck around and limited the Sox to six hits and only two runs over the rest of the game and earned the nod even though he finally had to be rescued by Don Mossi with two out in the ninth.

Braves Win 2; Adcock Homers in 2nd Tilt

Milwaukee — (UP) — The Braves swept a doubleheader with Pittsburgh yesterday, winning the opener, 3-0, on a bases-loaded walk in the eighth and taking the second game, 4-1, behind young Taylor Phillips, who got his first major league victory.

Bill Joe Adcock, Braves first baseman, had his consecutive-game home run string stopped at one in the eighth, but he walked a long homer in the fourth inning of the second game, breaking a tie and giving Phillips a one-run lead.

The homer was Adcock's eighth in the last nine games. A single by Willie Bruton scored the Braves' final two runs in the eighth inning.

Phillips took over for Bob Trowbridge in the fourth, hitting the right elbow by a line drive off the bat of Lee Walls in the third. X rays showed no broken bones, but doctors said the rookie had a bad bruise just under the elbow.

Phillips gave up only three hits. He was in serious trouble only in the eighth when a hit batter, a walk and a double choice put runners on first and third with one out.

The Sox, however, hammered their way into the lead with a first-inning run, punched in by Jensen, and a go-ahead cluster of four in the third. Dick Gernert paced this rally with his 11th homer. It also included a walk, a run-producing single by White, another walk and a two-run triple by Billy Goodman.

Houtman then struck around and limited the Sox to six hits and only two runs over the rest of the game and earned the nod even though he finally had to be rescued by Don Mossi with two out in the ninth.

Nixon wasn't so efficient. The Tribunes chased him in the fifth with another four-run burst which Mike helped highlight with a single and the third of four runs batted in by that coach-batter during the game.

Quinn Snares State Amateur Golf Title on 38th Hole

3,500 Watch Ronnie Rally Against Santilli

of Potowomutt Golf Club, Quinn, 24, is a recent graduate of Providence College. The son of a minister by an eighth of an inch, he is running the cup at the left and coming to a stop a few inches away for a par five.

Now it was the turn of Ronnie Quinn, who had putted earlier. He did not miss this time, and a grand show was now history.

Quinn started well, winning the first hole with a 20-foot putt for a birdie. He went two up at the third, where Santilli doubled in a "DIT" error and needed six to get on the green. Although out in par 36, Quinn missed short putts at the eighth and ninth, and the match was even at that point.

The defending champion won four of the next five holes, the 10th with a birdie, Ronnie got back in contention by winning the 16th with a birdie and the 17th with a par-four where Aguirre trapped his approach shot. He was two down at lunch time.

Over the first 18 holes he had 73 strokes, Santilli one less. Quinn drew out of bounds four times in the 19th, lost to a bogey-five. He lost the 20th (the hole where he finally won the championship) to Santilli's birdie-putt.

The comeback began on the next hole. On the way to this hole, Santilli slipped into the hole. Quinn's par-four was good. Then the champion-to-be birdied three consecutive holes and squared the match. His putt for a hole-in-one was good. He was two down at lunch time.

At the 26th, Quinn flipped and two putted and lost the hole. Quinn's par was good. Then the champion-to-be birdied three consecutive holes and squared the match. His putt for a hole-in-one was good. He was two down at lunch time.

The match was now a dog-dog affair. Santilli parred the 32nd. Quinn came back with a 30-foot putt for a winning birdie on the 33rd.

Going to the 34th, Quinn was much too strong with his approach but he ball his hole of a hole-in-one (this one occurred by RITA brass) setting in an official capacity and stopped in a favorable position. Probably to his own satisfaction, and certainly to the satisfaction of the impartial gallery, he failed to capitalize on the break. He clipped and two putted for a losing bogey.

The 35th was halved in bogey-five, and Santilli did well to save the ball. For he pulled two shots into heavy rough along the way.

The 36th was halved in par, as was the first extra hole, where either golfer might have closed off by sinking a 15-footer. What a show!

Furillo's Grand Slam Sparks Six-Run 6th; 2 Dodgers Ejected

Chicago — (UP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers, exploding for six runs in the sixth inning and sparked by Carl Furillo's grand slam home run, defeated the Chicago Cubs, 10-8, yesterday in a wild game enlivened by the ejection of Duke Snider from the field and Roger Craig from the bench.

Engillo's homer, his second of the game, came after two were out and two runs in. Scoring ahead of the Dodgers' outburst, he was Junior Gilliam, who singled, PeeWee Rees who reached base on a balk by Ernie Banks and Sandy Amoros, who walked.

The Dodgers' rally moved them into a 9-4 lead and came after the Cub had gone ahead in the third inning on another grand-slam homer, by Gene Baker. The first such blow ever hit off pitcher Don Newcombe.

In the third inning, Snider was ejected from the field after giving umpire Bill Jackowski an argument when he was called out for overrunning second base on a double. Later, Craig was ordered to leave the bench after his remarks were deemed uncomplimentary.

Craig's departure came after Newcombe was removed in the seventh inning with an explanation. He added an insurance run that he simply did not want him to pitch any more.

Ed Roebuck followed Newcombe to the mound and was immediately belted by the Cub for three hits, including a two-run homer by Don Hoak. Kenny Lehman followed Roebuck and was nicked for the fourth Cub in the inning.

In the seventh inning, the Dodgers added an insurance run when Gil Hodges poked one into the left-field bleachers.

The victory was Newcombe's 12th as against five losses and the defeat was charged to Jim Hughes, one of four pitchers who followed starter Jim Hossman, a no-hitter.

Gilliam's grand slam, his second of the game, came after two were out and two runs in. Scoring ahead of the Dodgers' outburst, he was Junior Gilliam, who singled, PeeWee Rees who reached base on a balk by Ernie Banks and Sandy Amoros, who walked.

Wilson Charged with 11th Victory

Southpaw Whitey Ford limited the White Sox to three hits and struck out seven in registering his 11th victory in the opener, Billy Pierce, who suffered his fourth defeat against the Sox, 2-1 and 6-3, before 61,331 fans, largest major league crowd of the season.

The victories stretched the Yankees' lead to 10½ games over runner-up Cleveland in the one-sided American League race and increased the White Sox losing streak to eight games.

Bauer's blow came off Jim Wilson, who relieved White Sox starter Dick Donovan in the ninth inning. Fred Hatfield's second homer of the contest, off reliever Johnny Kucks, put Chicago ahead, 5-4, in the top of the 10th.
