Nine ex-champs in R.I. Amateur

EAST PROVIENCE — Nine former champions are included in a field of 200 golfers who will begin play this morning in the Rhode Island Amateur Championship at Metacomet Country Glub.

Leo Marcotte Jr of Triggs won the title last year at Kirkbrae Country Club in Lincoln, defeating Paul Quigley of Metacomet in the 36-hole final. Both are entered in this week's tournament.

So, too, are former champions Ronnie Quinn and Angie Santilli of West Warwick; Frank McBride of R.I. Country Club; Norm Lutz of Pawtucket; Pete McBride, of Lincoln; Stan Abrams, Fred Campanelli and Al Faenza of Metacomet, and Ed Mauro Jr. of Point Judith.

In fact, the only eligible former R.I. Golf Association champion of the last dozen years who will not compete is 18-year-old Scott Teller of Quidnessett. Teller has passed the event this year in order to compete in the Western Junior in Chicago.

Marcotte, a 24-year-old La Salle Academy alumnus, seems to be coming into the tournament in top form. He won the state Public Links Champion-ship a week ago, whipping Dom Fusaro of West Warwick, 6 and 5, by playing even-par golf for 31 holes.

Marcotte is exempt from qualifying for match play for the State Amateur, so he will enjoy a pair of tuneup rounds today and tomorrow. None of the other 199 entrants will have the same luxury.

After today's round, the field will be cut to the low 64 and ties for a second qualifying round tomorrow. The 32 lowest scorers will gain match-play berths for Friday's round.

Two 18-hole rounds of match play will be contested Friday and Saturday, with the 36-hole championship set for Sunday Pairings and starting times for today's round were published in this week's Sunday Journal.

Mauro and Quigley tie for R. I. Amateur lead

After the start of the game had been delayed 26 minutes because of rain, the Sox assumed a 2-0 advantage in the first laning.

Denny Doyle reached on a fielder's choice and, after Carl Yastrzemski had fouled out for the second out, Lynn drilled a ground-rule double into the Sox bullpen in right center. If the ball hadn't bounced into the pen, Doyle likely would have scored all the way from first. However, he was allowed to advance only two bases.

It didn't matter, though, be-advance only two bases.

It didn't matter, though, because Rice drove in both runners with a line-drive double that looked as if it would bore a hole in the left-field wall. Rice had had something to prove against Perry. The last time the latter had faced the rookie here, April 30, he struck him out four consecutive times.

April 30, he struck him out four consecutive the helmet with Pudge Fisk on the helmet with an 0.2 pitch. Fisk fell to the mentarily, to be seriously hurt. He wasn't, though, and he remained in the game. Perry doesn't have a reputation as a "head hunter." Fisk was only the second the right-hander had hit in more than 183 innings to that point.
